China Development Brief's Bibliography of English-language Sources on Civil Society

Editor's Note: This bibliography is a response to the many students and scholars who contact us for suggestions about written sources on civil society in China. It attempts to list many of the writings on civil society, with an emphasis on China. The hardest part of creating this bibliography was deciding how to categorize these writings, and whether or not some writings should be included even though they were not directly about civil society. The categories we use here are by no means perfect and overlap. We hope though that they offer a useful way to access what has been written on the subject. Thanks to Emily Chesborough who created the template for this bibliography and input many of the entries you see here. This bibliography is of course a work in progress. If you see any errors, or would like to submit additions to this bibliography, please email us at inquiries@chinadevelopmentbrief.cn.

(updated July 22, 2013)

Publications marked with * can be found in the China Development Brief library.

Civil Society and Rural Development

Civil Society and Business

Environment and Civil Society

Ethnicity and Civil Society

Family and Civil Society

History and Civil Society

Intellectuals and Civil Society

Law and Civil Society

Media, the Internet and Civil Society

Religion and Civil Society

Social Welfare and Civil Society

General

Alleviation of Poverty

Child Welfare

Disabilities

Disaster Relief

Education

Migrant Labor/ Labor

Public Health

Social Enterprise

Women and Gender

Civil Society -- NGO Management

Civil Society - Advocacy

Civil Society – Economic and Social Development

Civil Society - Community Building

Civil Society – Comparative and International

Civil Society - Homowners Associations

Civil Society-NGOs

Civil Society – PRC

Davis, Deborah, et. al. Urban Spaces in Contemporary China: The Potential for Autonomy and Community in Post-Mao China,

Civil Society -- Theory

Civil Society and Political Reform

Civil Society - Volunteering

Civil Society - International Cooperation